University Bill Gaining Speed

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UP) — A bill permitting Eastern, Western, Murray and Morehead State colleges to become state universities, scheduled to be introduced Monday in the House, already has 56 sponsors.

The measure, embodying the recommendations of the state Commission on Higher Education, would permit these colleges to adopt the name "university" upon approval of a majority of their respective regents.

The bill also states that the University of Kentucky "shall continue to be the principal state institution for the conduct of statewide research and service programs."

Another major provision of the bill is a revision in the makeup of the state Council on Public Higher Education to place control in the hands of laymen.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Mrs. Carman Butler calls to say that her son Larry, who is in Korea, located a buddy who was only a few miles from him. They got in touch through a Ledger and Times article which listed Calloway County service men and their addresses.

The addresses were run so local people could send Christmas cards. Larry got several cards also and located a buddy to boot.

Mrs. Clayton Adams of Coldwater reports that her daughter Sue Ann Adams found a large bird near the Coldwater bridge.

Apparently a water crane of some kind. The bird stands about two feet high, is ash gray and has long legs, dark colored, and a long bill.

Mrs. Adams said the bird spread its wings and tried to fly, but apparently was so weak that it just got off the ground. The bird was placed in a house so it could warm up and could be fed but died anyway. Looks as though the bird just starved because it could not get any food through the ice.

Bird was very light, Mrs. Adams said.

Mrs. Adams called back to tell us the bird's wingspread was five feet, measured 53" from toes to tip of bill, five inches long and 21 inches long. Ash gray with brown fringed wings, brownish feather on top of head.

KEA Threatens Blacklisting Of State Schools

Kentucky's teachers protesting low salaries Thursday were told that the legislature should comply with their requests for pay hikes. However, they were asked to await action by the Governor's Commission to Help Education before seeking sanctions.

Former Gov. Bert Combs said the state should provide teachers with the $900 salary increase the Kentucky Education Association has asked. He spoke to about 500 Fayette County teachers participating in the KEA's "Professional Protest Day."

"The only solution to the problem," the former governor said, "is for the people in Frankfort to find out the revenue you want and to earmark it for salary increases only."

Rodney Van Zandt, National Education Association coordinator in Kentucky, told Louisville teachers if the state does not allocate more money to education soon, the Kentucky Education Association may move toward nationwide blacklisting of Kentucky schools.

J. Marvin Dodson, KEA executive secretary, said the association is "committed to set the machinery in motion for sanctions" if the problem is not solved.

Dodson estimated 95 to 96 percent of Kentucky's 29,000 teachers participated in the walkout Thursday, although the impact of the demonstration was blunted by many schools being closed because of Tuesday's near record snow.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt met with 24 teachers Thursday from Woodford County and later addressed teachers in Christian County and Lexington by telephone. He said the problem is not one of recognizing the teachers' needs, but of finding the "ways and means" within resources at the state and local level to finance them.

He said the KEA's request for $900 is increases over the next two years might still be put into effect during this legislative session.

Breathitt's recently enacted biennial budget provided $400 per teacher in pay hikes.

133 Die In Crash Of Boeing 727; Falls Into Tokyo Bay

By KIM WILLENSON United Press International

TOKYO (UP) — An All Nippon Airways Boeing 727 jet airliner with 133 persons aboard crashed into Tokyo Bay tonight only four minutes from a landing in perfect weather. All aboard were feared dead in the worst single airplane disaster in history.

The plane carrying 126 passengers from a northern Japan snow festival and a crew of 7 fell into the bay seven miles from Tokyo as the veteran World War II pilot was circling for a routine landing.

A search boat of the Maritime Safety Agency sighted several chairs and articles of clothing floating in the water at 11:40 p.m. 9:40 a.m. EST and they were identified as coming from the missing plane. Search ships operating with spotlights and an occasional flare from American planes overhead converged on the scene southeast of Tokyo and found the wing of the plane floating in the water where a light mist hovered just above the surface.

At 11:50 p.m., the agency said.

It was the fourth fatal crash of a Boeing 727-three-jet airliner within a year and already Japanese officials were reported raising questions about the safety of the sleek craft in widespread use on airlines in the United States.

There was no clue as to what happened. Fishermen had reported seeing a plane trailing dense clouds of smoke and then a ball of fire as the plane apparently hit the waters of the bay. But the pilot had given no indication of possible trouble.

Capt. Masaki Takahashi, 39, trained as a pilot during World War II and cited only recently for his safety record, radioed the Hansa international airport control tower four minutes before his scheduled landing he was on the final, circling approach. Then disaster.

Teachers Ask Repeal Of Revenue Limit

About 2,000 school teachers in the First District met here yesterday and called for Governor Breathitt and the General Assembly to repeal the bill which was passed in the last session which limits the amount of local funds which can be raised for the schools.

The meeting was held at Murray State College during the one day strike called by the KEA.

A resolution approved by the teachers asked for revenue which would carry out the KEA legislative program.

"This is the minimum financial effort needed to prevent Kentucky schools from backsliding to the bottom rank of the 50 states" the resolution said.

Addressing the teachers were Dr. Harry Spark, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Leon Smith, member of the KEA Board of Directors, Bradford Mutchler, President of the FEDEA.

Dr. Sparks told the group that he had not released an opinion on the strike so that he could work with all parties and keep lines of communication open between all factions.

After the meeting yesterday, which adjourned at 11:00 a.m., teachers returned to their schools for local meetings.

VINDICTIVENESS NO ANSWER

A sad commentary on the modern way of life is the threat of the Kentucky Education Association to bring sanctions against the state. If carried out then the KEA would urge teachers to find jobs outside Kentucky and urge the NEA to get teachers not to come into Kentucky. This would include trying to keep industry from coming into Kentucky.

In other words the KEA is willing to push Kentucky down even further than it allegedly is, if they do not get their demands, regardless of how it might affect Kentucky's children.

What in heaven's name kind of attitude is this, coming from intelligent, college educated people?

We certainly think Kentucky teachers should receive more pay, but we cannot support any such completely selfish attitude as this.

We believe that Kentucky teachers should run newspaper ads calling attention to their situation. They should lobby in the general assembly. They should try all worthy means to gain salaries commensurate with the duties they perform.

Kentucky teachers have been applying pressure in the past several years and it is bearing fruit. Within the past ten years state income spent on education has increased by 22 per cent. Over 57 per cent of state money goes for education. In these four years teacher salaries will have increased by $909.

The trend toward spending more for education is noticeable. We think it will increase.

If education brings enlightenment, and understanding, and compassion, and reason, the KEA call for sanctions is certainly no indication.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

CITY BEAUTIFUL

Not long ago an eastern city banned the use of clotheslines in the front of houses. Although a rebellion home owner challenged the validity of the law, it was upheld in court.

Legal experts reacted vehemently, both pro and con. For the clothesline case touched on a sensitive issue: may a city restrict the use of private property for the purpose of beautifying the community?

The issue arises in countless ways. May the owners of roadside property be forbidden to erect billboards? May the owner of an unsightly junk yard be forced to enclose it with a fence? May a home owner be required to keep his premises from becoming an eyesore to the neighborhood?

Clearly the city may act for reasons of safety or health. It may insist, out of regard for your neighbors' welfare, that your home must not become a firetrap or a source of disease.

But the law long looked askance at regulations that were even partly motivated by considerations of beauty. Safety and health were considered matters of necessity, but beauty only a matter of luxury — not urgent enough to justify government tampering with private property rights.

Besides, it is relatively easy to agree on what is safe and what is healthy. But what is beautiful? If the city could regulate in the name of beauty, couldn't it — for example — tell a home owner what color paint his house? Where to plant his shrubbery? As one judge put it:

"Individual taste, good or bad, should ordinarily be left alone by government."

Nevertheless, there has been a gradual trend toward letting aesthetics play a larger role in municipal regulation. Beauty, if not yet as necessary as safety or health, is at least considered more necessary than it used to be.

"Our sensibilities have become more refined and our ideals more exacting," wrote one court. And an eyesore in a neighborhood of residences might be as ruinous to property values as a disagreeable noise, or odor, or a menace to safety or health.

States differ as to just how large the role of beautification may be. But they do agree that it may carry some weight.

"Beauty may not be 'quack,' a judge observed: 'but at least it is no longer an outcast. Beyond the pale of protection.'"

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

Now that the recent Department of Housing and Urban Development is in business, the public can expect prompt moves to expand federal control over cities and suburbs.

HUD, as the department is known in Washington, has been widely decried by its proponents as the "one-stop shopping spot" for mayors seeking federal funds for their communities. If the mayors shop at HUD, however, they can expect to become deeply in debt to the federal regulators.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that HUD soon may open an "urban desk" at each of the 76 federal housing offices in U. S. cities. The idea is that public officials who want to find out how to get federal money and federal approval could stop by these desks and get their instructions. Before they stop by those desks, mayors would be well-advised to think of their future. The desks could well become the shadow mayors of American cities. If a HUD official can call the tune on every program in a community, that official soon will be the real power in a community. Elected officials would be mere front men.

An even more immediate danger from HUD is that it will prove for a rent subsidy program in the current session of Congress. Robert Weaver, the head of the new department, pledged rent subsidies, or "rentstare," last year when he was head of the old Housing and Home Finance Agency. The subsidy plan was incorporated into the 1965 Housing Act. But Congress declined to appropriate the money to finance it. One reason Congress proved unwilling was that it discovered that a family with assets of $25,000 would have been eligible for receiving a housing subsidy.

Responsible citizens should begin right now to register opposition to a renewal of "rentstare" legislation. Rent subsidies would be a slap in the face of the millions of Americans who are making all manner of personal sacrifices to pay off the mortgages on the homes they have bought. Broad-based home-owning has been one of the most happy developments of the last 20 years. It has been part of the expansion and strengthening of the great American middle class. Moreover, home-owning is an exercise in capitalism, in saving and in self-reliance. "Rentstare" would in effect repudiate such individual efforts.

Not only would "rentstare" have this ill effect, but it would erase a necessary line between private and public housing in the United States. Those who today live in public housing are encouraged to look forward to the time when they own their own homes. But if more prosperous citizens are to receive a housing dole, then the incentive to get out of a public project will be shattered.

Perhaps more than any other program, "rentstare" would push America toward a collectivistic state. The feeling that a man's home is his castle is a foundation stone of our free enterprise society. If great numbers of Americans lost the feeling of owning property, if they realized that the very walls that surround their families are provided by the government, then their dependence on Big Brother in Washington would increase sharply.

The rent subsidy idea is riddled with injustice to those citizens who are paying their way in American life. If "rentstare" became the law of the land, then the individual who makes a mortgage payment each month, and therefore cannot afford some luxury, also would be paying taxes to house someone who wouldn't practice any self-sufficiency.

The truth is that there is no grassroots demand for "rentstare." The only people calling for it are the social welfareists who are interested in wrapping all Americans in a cocoon of federal programs.

Based on the latest vital statistics, about 250,000 Americans under 65 died of these diseases in the single year. Had the 1959 death rate persisted, the toll would have been about 280,000. Chart shows, by age and sex groupings, the estimated 40,000 lives saved. ## Duel Planned For Daytona Road Race Sunday

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A squad of Ferraris and Fords duel today with Jim Hall's weird white Chaparral for the pole position in this weekend's grueling 24-hour Daytona Continental road race.

Either the Chaparral, handled by veteran Phil Hill and Joe Bonnier, or one of the five Mark II Ford prototypes is expected to take the pole in today's qualifying round. They have been consistently faster than the Ferraris.

But speed must be matched with durability to win the Continental, which begins at 3 p. m. (EST), Saturday and ends at 3 p. m. Sunday. The Fords have never finished the 24-hour race and the Chaparral has never started one.

In Thursday's final practice rounds, Ken Miles in a Ford prototype bettered the unofficial lap record for this peculiar 3.8 mile course. He turned it in 1:15.8 per hour about 1-10 of a second better than the old mark. Speeds greater than that are expected in today's qualifying.

Miles and Lloyd Ruby, who teamed to win this race in a Ford when it was a 2,000 kilometer run last year, are driving together again this year for Carroll Shelby.

Probably the fastest car on the course, despite Miles' time, is the Chaparral. The Chaparral, which won in a walk last year at the Sebring, showed up here. The car, with its new roof and its adjustable spoiler, certainly views with the new Porsche Carrera 6 prototype for the most peculiar appearance.

'Best Shooter' In My 36 Years Exclaims Rupp

By JOHN T. KADY

United Press International
LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) — Little Louie Dampier, says Kentucky coach Adolph Rupp, is the best shooter he has ever seen in college basketball.

"Louie is the finest shot I have ever seen in college basketball and that includes 36 years of coaching," he said.

In 36 years Rupp has seen plenty, including Frank Ramsey, Cliff Hagan and Ralph Beard of Kentucky; Jerry Lucas of Ohio State; Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati; Jerry West of West Virginia, and many others. But the Baron of Bluegrass basketball is loud in his praise for the smallest of "Rupp's Runks." Dampier, at an even 5 feet tall, is probably one of the smallest players on a major college basketball team.

But can he generate the firepower Dampier hit 18 of 29 shots and wound up with 42 points Tuesday night as unbeat Kentucky clubbed third-ranked Vanderbilt 105-90 at Nashville, Tenn., for victory No. 16.

Dampier is averaging close to 22 points a game this season after leading the team with a 17-point game average as a sophomore last year. He averaged 26.7 as a freshman.

"He is a very intelligent ball player," Rupp said. "He has a native basketball sense that a lot of players don't have."

"When Vanderbilt started coming after us," Rupp said, "he controlled the ball. He brought it downcourt by himself."

Another thing that impressed Rupp was that Dampier picked off nine rebounds against the towering Commodores.

"You don't look for a little guy like that to get the ball," Rupp said. "His orders are not to rebound, just to shoot and drop back to stop the fast break."

Dampier has hit almost 50 percent of his shots, most of them coming from the outside.

"He just stands back there and tosses it up," Rupp said.

Rupp considers himself fortunate in recruiting Dampier, a native of Southport, Ind.

"He said he wanted to come to Kentucky and that's all there was to it," Rupp said. "We knew we had a shooter."

down under the snow and otherwise keep fairly warm, but his can only hunker over and fluff out their wings and try to find some protection from the elements.

Saw a shoplifter in action this morning. He was caught red handed by the owners of the store.

Unfortunately store owners have to keep a sharp eye out for folks like this who have no qualms about stealing merchandise right off the shelves.

The only cure is immediate prosecution. If it becomes known that Murray merchants will prosecute, then shoplifters will think twice about stealing. If the shoplifter is a student, it means getting kicked out of school. What disgrace.

There is just no telling what a fellow can come up with when he has to.

Take Perry Cole for instance down at the Kenlake Hotel.

When he got back from the Rotary Club yesterday he was informed that there was a cat in the attic of the hotel.

Well they tried this and that to get the cat out and everything failed.

Finally somebody had a bright idea.

There was a vent in one of the restrooms and they placed a board into this vent and put a shrimp out on the end of the board.

This smart alec cat walks out on the end of the board to get the shrimp, the board tilts and the cats drops to the floor.

P. J. never did tell us whether the cat got the shrimp or not.

Kentucky is third in the nation in the receiving of funds in the "war on poverty." Only California and New York get more. We get over $54 million.

Guess we should be proud of that, but for some reason it makes us a little sick.

SMALL BUSINESS BREAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — GOP members of the House Select Committee on Small Business want the Defense Department and other big-spending government agencies to give a better break to the nation's small businesses.

Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., W. Va., ranking Republican on the panel, complained Tuesday that the federal small business administration has withdrawn its representatives from Defense Department procurement centers, thereby reducing the chances of contract awards to small businesses.

Moment of Truth Nears for Racers In Western Tilt

The Murray State Thoroughbreds, winners of four straight Ohio Valley Conference games and in second place in the league, will face their moment of truth Saturday night when the league-leading Western Hilltoppers come to town.

Western is 5-0 in the conference. Murray is 5-1. Western has beaten

Tennessee Tech, Eastern, Morehead, East Tennessee, and Middle Tennessee, and all the games but one with East Tennessee were played on the road. Murray lost to East Tennessee and beat Tennessee Tech at Murray and beat Eastern, Morehead, and Austin Peay on the road.

In games involving common opponents, Western has won by much more handsome margins. All the rating systems have Western a heavy favorite—Likelihood by 15 points. Nevertheless, the Racers' Cunningham leads in rebounding have been improving steadily, they with an average of 15.1 and in field won their most impressive game of the season Tuesday night at Austin Peay, and they had rather beat Western than anyone.

Also, the Racers have played exceedingly well against the Hilltoppers in recent years and have won six of the last seven games between the two. Cal Luther's teams have won eight and lost seven since he became coach in 1949. In the overall series, Western lead 61-30.

Luther reported himself well pleased with the Austin Peay game. "It was a good team effort, we shot well, and we handled their press with poise," he said. "Still, we'll have to play even better to beat Western."

The Racers set a new conference record in free-throw shooting against Austin Peay, connecting for 24 in 24 attempts. Don Duncan had his most prolific game of the season with 30 points and took over second place in Racer scoring with a 15.3 average. Herb McPherson leads the Racers with 20.6. Stu Johnson has 15.2, Milt Pitts 13.1, and Dick Cunningham 11.2.

Cunningham leads in rebounding with an average of 15.1 and in field goal shooting with a percentage of 56.3. McPherson has hit 82.5 percent of his free throws to lead in that department. The Racers are one of the best free-throw shooting teams in the nation, having hit 207 of 399 for 76.9 percent.

Luther said that Western was certainly one of the outstanding teams in the OVC since he had been at Murray and that it would take a superb game by the Racers to win. "Western has everything a great team needs," he said, "and from the way they have crushed other so-called contenders this season, we know what will be in store for us if we don't play a great game."

The Murray and Western frosh will play a preliminary game at 6 o'clock. The varsity game will begin at 8. The game has been sold out for two weeks.

Memo: Because of the heavy requests for press box tickets, no scouts will be seated in the press-box for the game. Radio stations will be restricted to 2 seats each and newspapers to 1.

Coach Cal Luther

Campus Unrest? It's Historical, Says Professor

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — A Stanford University professor holds that parents who feel student unrest is a sign of a failing nation can take comfort from history.

"What would parents think if they read these headlines?" "Fifty persons killed in battle between students and townspeople."

"Five-hundred thousand students strike for peace."

"University prey driven from country by students."

Student unrest is as old as higher education, said Professor W. H. Cowley of the Stanford School of Education.

Riots and rebellions raged throughout the academic world in the fourth century, A.D., he said. Students drove Saint Augustine out of the University of Carthage, then cheated him out of his fees as a private teacher in Rome.

The 50 persons were killed a thousand years later in the three-day St. Scholasticus riot at Oxford.

"American students have been involved in public issues since the Revolution," Cowley notes. "Alexander Hamilton began his public career as a student agitator; he and his associates drove the Tory president of King's College out of the country."

"During the Great Depression, outside agitators from both left and right helped create turmoil on campus. On April 12, 1934, half a million students across the United States rebelled in a peace strike," he said.

Despite the drama of these public protests, students have been more effective when their criticism is aimed at their colleges, Cowley said.

"There is no stopping student activism in the public arena but those who expect to be as influential outside the campus as inside are naive indeed," said Cowley, a self-styled "student agitator" 40 years ago while editor of the Dartmouth College newspaper.

Good Grooming Helps Up Grades

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — A girl's appearance can affect her high school grades, says Mrs. Lynn Stiles, Texas A&M University consumer education specialist.

"These are the years when daughters are likely to have complexion troubles, known as adolescent skin," says Mrs. Stiles. "Anxiety about facial blemishes can actually destroy self-confidence and this can affect the ability to concentrate on studies."

She warns mothers to ward off sliding grades by teaching their daughters personal hygiene.

Home Hazards Make Hose Run

NEW YORK (AP) — Many of the hazards to safety lie in the commonplace around the home.

For instance, some household cleaners can be the villain that causes the run. They are, if they contain bisulfate. When washing stockings in the bathroom basin, make sure there are no cleaners particles around, for even a tiny speck can injure nylon yarn.

The list of villains comes from the National Association of Hose Manufacturers, which was concerned about women's concern for seemingly unexplained runs in their nylons.

Another hazard — a stray line ash from a lighted cigarette can melt a tiny bit of yarn. It probably won't show until the next time you put the stocking on.

Air pollution, a health hazard, also is a nylon hazard. When the air is foggy, or just damp, the moisture causes a chemical reaction in the slippery particles of soot from chimneys, trucks, buses and cars, which can cause nylons to pop and run.

Mineral acids, such as sulphuric or hydrochloric, will cause rapid disintegration of nylon. If you live anywhere in the vicinity of a garage that recycles the lead in storage batteries, there's trouble in the air for your nylons. The batteries contain sulphuric acid, and fumes from it are carried off into the air when the batteries are recharged for the lead.

To save wear and tear on nylons, the association suggested: either smooth lotion over rough hands or wear cotton gloves when you put on stockings. Use fingertips for pressure, not fingernails. Check shoes to be sure there are no rough interiors. Check feet for callouses, nails too long. See that the nylons in the dresser drawer are not stored against wood — that's asking for snag.

Household Hints

A bunch of watercress goes a long way in salads. Mix a little watercress with lettuce greens to provide variety of color and taste.

A squeeze of fresh lemon juice perks up bottled or homemade oil and vinegar salad dressings.

Tips Sharpen Use Of Knives

CHICAGO (AP) — Knives are the most used items in any kitchen. Each type of food requires a different length and shape of knife blade to do a good cutting, chopping, slicing or carving job.

Professional chefs have been known to use as many as 25 different knives, but the average homemaker can get by with fewer, say experts at Ecco Housewares Co.

They suggested a 3-inch paring knife, to pare, peel and slice fruits and vegetables; a waverly edge utility knife to cut and slice fruits, vegetables and pies; a 9-inch roast slicer for cutting and slicing roasts, cheese, and meats; a steak and poultry slicer to carve fowl, small roasts, steak and fish; and a French cook's knife for cutting bread, rolls, cake, baked ham and sausage.

The quality of a knife is judged by the metal and grind of the blade, the type of handle, and the way the handle is attached.

The most widely used blades are the hollow ground straight edge and the scalloped waverly edge. A hollow ground edge is obtained by sharpening both sides of the cutting edge in a long oval curve. The waverly edge is made from a hollow ground blade which has narrow scallops along one side.

Less expensive knife blades have a "V" or taper grind, and a roll grind which is obtained by placing the lower part of the blade between two sharpening wheels that are rotating toward the blade.

Steel with carbon is the basic metal of all knives, according to Ecco. Stainless steel is the most popular metal. But quality is determined by what kind of additives are put in the steel, and the type of heat treating process to which it is subjected.

If the blade bends and then snaps back into place, there is a correct balance of carbon, hardening, and tempering. When the carbon content is not correct, blades will darken and stain and lose a keen edge. Better quality knives have vanadium and chromium added for better wearing qualities.

As The Angels String

GARLAND, Tex. (AP) — Pat Rogch is one of a kind among the 65,000 people of Garland — she plays the harp.

That means she is always being asked to bring the 300-pound instrument to churches and civic meetings. It also means, she said, that people sometimes think her "a little bit odd," spending hours a day practicing and lugging the harp, draped in a cloth, around in her auto.

She figures the harp got to be associated with angels for one of two reasons — because of its "heavenly sound" or because angels are the only people who have enough time to practice.

Fashionettes

Denim, that favorite "duty" fabric, now is on the go with the young and sports-minded set. It shows for spring in halter tops and hip-length pants, topped by a railroad striped jacket. It shows as a pink blazer and slim pants with blue voile shirt, or as white bell bottom trousers with purple T-shirt. One New York pair of designers, Gusset and Becky, use denim for a backless evening gown with rhinestone buckles.

United Press International

Look for a new type of stone to be a popular ring setting. The Jewelry Industry Council calls it Tahitian pearl, a blend of black and white mother of pearl cut in cabochon size, round or oval shapes, usually set in gold.

The council reports that in costume and fine jewelry popular designs for spring and summer include whimsical birds, animal motifs, and flower pins. In costume, there is new emphasis on coral, no longer coral in color, but white.

One lipstick is not enough. At least three are needed, say makeup experts for Coty. The new idea, the firm said, is to wear the rose, glossy shades with fashion's bright colors for spring — lettuce green, Mediterranean blue, Indian pink. Then, use a darker, cheery red with the splash of white in fashion. For evening, try the frosted lipsticks or, to go with the frosted, the soft pink shades.

Look for plenty of color afoot for spring and summer. New from the New York design team of Herbert and Beth Levine is a green, a soft whitened tone, for daytime footwear.

Dear Abby . . .

Oh, For Heaven's Sake!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There are 365 days in the year, right? So will you please tell me why my sister had to pick the day of MY wedding anniversary for HER wedding date? Don't tell me she forgot, because she was my maid of honor and she knew perfectly well that that was my wedding date.

Now all of my future wedding anniversaries will have to be shared with her. That just burns me up!

BURNED UP IN CLEVELAND

DEAR BURNED: Even though you are burned up, don't make an ash of yourself by voicing your disapproval.

DEAR ABBY: About four years ago my sister-in-law gave us an old beat-up baby bed that she'd had in her basement for ten years. My husband sanded it down, painted it and fixed it up like new, and we used it until our baby was four years old. Then we traded it along with a lot of other odds and ends on a new set of bedroom furniture for the child's room. My sister-in-law heard about it and demanded that we get the baby bed back for her. (She had no use for it, she just wanted to start trouble.) Of course, by then it was too late. Well, she has a very big mouth, so she spread it all over the family and different ones took sides, and now there are lots of hard feelings. I admit I should have asked her before getting rid of it, but honestly, Abby, I had no idea she wanted it back. How can I patch up this mess?

FAMILY ROW

DEAR FAMILY: Ask her how much she thinks the bed was worth, and insist that she take the cash. Even if it's expensive, it will shut her big mouth, and that's worth something.

DEAR ABBY: One of my best friends has a heart as big as this world. She knows what it is like to be forsaken, so she has been attempting to provide a home for forsaken animals. How can I tell her tactfully that she cannot keep a house full of cats? Abby, the odor is indescribable, and she is producing more cats, which in turn produce still more cats; cats which have never seen the outdoors! Her kindness to these poor creatures is misplaced. If she must be numb, what can be done?

New Briquettes; They're Peachy

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP) — Until Robert T. Collier came along, California peach canners had a terrific problem:

What could they do with their yearly output of 120 million pounds of peach pits.

They buried them, loaded them on barges and dumped them in the ocean. They tried feeding them to animals, and pulverizing them to flush into sewage systems.

But always there were more peach pits.

Collier, a Santa Clara manufacturer, took on the problem and decided they would make excellent charcoal briquettes. Today his plant here converts more than 500 tons of pits into charcoal for outdoor chefs each day.

Widow's Life; Work Of Mercy

DEXTER, Mo. (AP) — It might be hard to believe, but Mrs. Geneva Massey really gets letters from women thanking her "for my kindness to their husbands."

"These are the times I know I am doing a worthwhile job," Mrs. Massey says of the letters. Mrs. Massey's job since 1951 has been to volunteer for more than 3,700 hours at the Veterans' Administration Hospital in Poplar Bluff in southeast Missouri, almost 55 miles from her Dexter home.

Mrs. Massey, a widow since 1949, also is a nurse aide at a convalescent home and does other volunteer work at a clinic. She does it, she volunteers, says Mrs. Massey, because her husband, a World War I veteran, was hospitalized before his death.

PROTECT SALT FLATS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Utah congressman wants the government to determine if trach mining on the famed Bonneville Salt Flats will damage the world-renowned site.

Rep. David S. King, D-Utah, said Thursday he has asked Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall to order a study of the potassium mining operation in the Bonneville area. He said he would propose legislation to make the salt flats a national recreation area or monument if necessary to protect the scenery.

SCIENTIFIC EXCHANGE

WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of nine U.S. scientists who specialize in low energy physics will tour Russian nuclear installations under the auspices of U.S.-Soviet exchange program.

The atomic energy commission said Thursday the trip was part of a program begun last year when a group of Soviet scientists visited the United States to inspect facilities devoted to peaceful use of atomic energy.

HEALTHY BONUS

PT. MONMOUTH, N. J. (AP) — S. Sgt. Richard F. Cunningham will use his $9,538 re-enlistment bonus to buy a new house. The bonus was bestowed to be the largest paid in this country under a new incentive program.

Cunningham, an electronics instructor at the U.S. Army Signal School, signed up for a new hitch Wednesday. His bonus was only $18 under the record paid a serviceman in Viet Nam recently.

Doctor Invents To Help The Feet

MT. VERNON, Ohio (AP) — An electric bone rasp, which will remove corns and calluses by a surgical procedure in about 30 seconds, has been developed by Dr. Bernard S. Weinstein, a local podiatrist.

Dr. Weinstein said the 30-second time limit is compared to the normal 45-minute requirement for the same operation performed by hand.

The central Ohio physician said the bone rasp is the result of five years of research and experimentation.

The instrument was first displayed to the medical profession at the third annual meeting of the American Podiatry Association meeting in St. Louis.

CHAPTER II
Scot Bailey sat in the back of the ship, looking out at the sea. He was a young man, twenty-two years old, with dark hair and a strong jaw. He was a sailor, and he was used to the sea. But this was different. This was a voyage of discovery. He was going to the South Seas, to the farthest reaches of the world. He was going to find out what was out there. He was going to find out what was waiting for him. He was going to find out what was waiting for the world.
